

Legal

Finn Dixon & Herling LLP ("firm") provides this website and the information on it for general informational purposes only. Information accessible through the site is not, and should not be relied upon or regarded as, legal advice. No one accessing or reviewing any content or information accessible through the firm's website, whether or not a current client of the firm, should act or refrain from acting on the basis of such content or information, without first consulting with and engaging a qualified, licensed attorney, concerning the particular facts and circumstances of the matter at issue. The firm's website contains general information only, and may not reflect current legal developments, or laws or rules that may apply in particular jurisdictions. The firm and its lawyers expressly disclaim all liability in connection with actions taken or not taken based on any or all of the contents or information accessible through this site.

The firm's website also offers links to websites owned and controlled by others. The firm is not responsible for the content, operation, links or transmissions, or any information provided on any third-party website which may be accessed by a link from the firm's site.

Operation of the firm's website is not intended to form, and will not create, an attorney-client relationship. Any person who accesses information from the firm's website or who unilaterally communicates any information to the firm or any of its lawyers by e-mail or otherwise should not expect or assume that: an attorney-client relationship is formed, the firm owes such person any professional duties owed to a client or prospective client, or that the firm or the lawyer is willing to consider or discuss forming an attorney-client relationship. Contacting the firm through the website, by e-mail or other means does not create an attorney-client relationship with the firm or any lawyer of the firm. Before forming an attorney-client relationship, it is necessary that the firm determine whether any conflicts of interest exist and agree to the specific terms and conditions of the engagement.

Communications and information transmitted via e-mail or the Internet may not be secure, confidential, or protected by the attorney-client privilege. Please do not send any confidential or sensitive communications or information without first contacting one of our lawyers, and receiving further instructions about how to proceed.

This website may be considered attorney advertising under the rules of some states. The hiring of an attorney is an important decision that should not be based solely upon advertisements.

In the course of our business we may collect or otherwise come into possession of Social Security numbers. It is our policy to protect the confidentiality of such Social Security numbers, to prohibit the unlawful disclosure of such Social Security numbers and to limit access to such Social Security numbers.